Volume of Business Smallest
of Any Saturday Session
for Over Month

By The Associated Press.

NEW YORK, June 14.—The eastern market was quiet today, the volume of business being smaller probably than any other previous Saturday for more than a month. Trade comes generally limited ready and an only slight increase in the number of bales offered for sale, which was probably due to the rather pessimistic tone of the stock market and uncertainty about the future caused by the recent series of strikes and labor disputes throughout the country. With a minimum bid of 14 to 15 cents, the market was quiet, and with no bids offered at all, the price of cotton was $1.00 per bushel, with no bids offered at all.
